MUNDANE PLEASURES. O why, when life's bright smiles do shed Their radiance o'er our way,

When sparkling mid the heavens doth beam The star of destiny, That void so fearful in the soul, That darkness dread, beyond control
Of human will to dissipate,
Which shrouds the spirit!—Why this state Of longing deep, yet unexpressed, The undefined !- This strange unrest! Those striving voices which o'er-sweep Of thought the vast eternal deep, Awaking mid its chambers dim A response to their solemn hymn!

And would'st thou, mortal, solve the mystery? Beyond the portals of infinity
The revelation dwells. A wanderer here,
The immortal eigheth for its native sphere,
A response giveth to the voices low
Which stray from hence; the rich harmonious flow
Of those pure waters of eternity;
And fain would throw saids its honds, and free And fain would throw aside its bonds, and free Forever sour, but that frail nature shrinks Aghast from that dread power which breaks the links Of life, and clingeth madly to those joys, Earth's happiness, which teemeth with alloys MARINE DEVERE.

For thou art only five feet high,
And I am six feet three; I wonder, dear, how you supposed That I could stoop so low-Tis only some can tie a knot, Though all may fix a beau.

Besides, you must confess, my love, The bargain scarcely fair, For never could we make a match, Although we made a pair: Marriage I know, makes one of two, But here's the horrid bore-The priest declares if you are one, Then I at least am four,

'Tis true that moralists have said That love has got no eyes, But why should my sighs be heaved For one who has no size? And on my wedding day I'm sure I'd leave you in the lurch,

In the inside of a church. Tie usual for a wife to take Her husband by the arm, But pray excuse me should I hint

For you never saw a steeple dear,

A sort of fond alarm, That when my arm I offered you, That happiness to beg, Your highest effort, dear, would be To take me by the leg.

I do admit I wear a glass,

Because my sight's not good, But were I always quizzing you, It might be counted rude; And though I use a convex lens, By all the Gods! I hope, My wife will ne'er look up to me Through a Herschel's Telescope

Then, fare thee well, my gentle one! I ask no parting kiss, I must not break my back to gain So exquisite a bliss; Nor will I weep, lest I should hurt

So delicate a flower-The tears that fell from such a height Would be a thunder shower. Farewell! and pray don't drown yourself

In a basin or a tub, For that would be a sore disgrace To all the Six-Feet-Club; But if you ever love again, Love on a smaller plan,
